

These kids are doing something they shouldn't. Can you tell what it is? They are playing inside a car trunk which is a very dangerous thing to do. Once there were two brothers who died just like this when they were playing inside a car trunk and accidentally locked themselves inside. They suffocated and died of heat exposure inside the trunk. They aren't the only ones. Other kids have died in trunks, toy chests, old freezers, and other small places. If it's a small place with a door that could close, it's best to not play anywhere around it. Keep an eye out for the younger kids too!

Helpful safety tip: If for any reason you ever find yourself locked inside a trunk (maybe an alien kidnapped you and stuck you inside), some cars have a safety latch that will open it from the inside. Feel around to try and find it, and bang on the trunk to make noise.
