

There's something dangerous happening in this picture, and if I have to tell you what it is, I think you might need brain surgery. Every day, 2-3 kids are shot accidentally, because someone was playing with a gun. Lots of times it isn't the kid playing with the gun who gets shot, but one of their friends. So if anyone you know ever decides to play with a gun, get away from them! Leave and go tell an adult right away. Some real guns can have bright colors, so if you're ever unsure about whether something is a real gun or a toy, don't pick it up, don't even touch it without asking an adult first.

COLOR N' LEARN SAFETY
www.keeppyourchildsafesafe.org

Bullets can fire even without a gun. If they get too hot or if they are smacked against something hard, they'll shoot. So don't touch these, either!