

Never, ever, ever, ever, do what these kids are doing. You should never horseplay or play games near a road. No pushing games, no tag, no tossing the football around. All it takes is one little slip-up! Or one bad move, and either you or one of your friends might end up a hood-ornament on someone's car. You might think to yourself, "It would never happen to me." But that's just what hundreds of little hood ornaments before you thought too. So if you're waiting for the bus or walking alongside the street, play it smart, play it safe, and don't play near the road!
