

Somebody in the park has lost his puppy, and he wants Haley to go help him look for it. What do you think - should she help him? No! This is a stranger trick. Even if a grown-up had lost a puppy, he might ask you if you've SEEN it, but no adult in their right mind would ask a strange kid to help them look.

Adults know better than that, because they know that strangers try to trick kids in this same way. So if this ever happens to you, say no, stay away, and start walking to the nearest adult you know immediately. If none are around, find another parent with kids and tell them what is going on.
