

Every single year, 19,000 houses get burned down, all because children make a bad choice and play with fire. That's like an entire city, gone in a slash! These kids burn up all their toys. They burn up everything their family has. Sometimes, they even burn themselves all up-all because they made a bad choice and played with fire. To get an idea of just how many houses that is, ever 27 minutes, every hour of every day and night, somewhere in the u.S. a kid is playing with fire and burning down their house. Better yet, try to count to 19,000! I bet you'll get tired and say "that's just too many." We couldn't agree more...that's WAY too many. So make sure you don't become one of the 19,000. Never, ever play with fire!
