

It's not very wise to play a game of chicken with a train. It's better to be safe than sorry. Once there was a little girl who went to the store to buy candy. On the way back, she thought she could make it across the tracks before the train came. She was wrong. It hit her and killed her as she ran across. Don't let this be you! Don't play around train tracks, or walk down them with headphones on either. You might not hear a train coming. If you ever get stuck on the tracks, wiggle out of your shoe. If you can't, call for help, or send a friend to find the nearest adult right away. Time is important!