It's everyone's responsibility to keep an eye on little kids whenever there is water around. It doesn't take much water for a little kids to drown. They've done so in bathtubs, toilet bowls, and even puddles, because they don't have the muscle to pick themselves up if they fall down in a funny position. Water is one of the most dangerous things to little kids. So be a responsible bigger kid to all the littler kids around you, and keep an eye our for their safety.

If you think someone might be in trouble, don't hesitate.
