reason rules crazy enjoy heeding indoors tragic million pointy parking skull trip

Put on your seatbelt ... wear your helmet ... no kissing rattlesnakes ... yatta, yatta, yatta. Sometimes it seems like adults have a _____ different rules for just about everything. You might even think that sometimes grown-ups enjoy making up rules just to make kids _____.

But believe it or not, just about every rule is there for a _____: because not _____ this warning has led to some really bad things in the past. When grown-ups tell you to wear a helmet when riding, it's because they don't want your _____ cracked open ... something that happens to 65,000 kids each and every year. If they tell you to stay close while walking through the parking lot, it's because they don't want a car to back up right over you ... something that's happened many times before. If they tell you not to run indoors, that's because there are too many _____ things that could cause serious injury (or even kill you!) if you happen to _____ and fall – something kids have been known to do.

The _____ are there to try and make sure that YOUR life doesn't take a _____ turn like this. So stay safe, and remember: No arm wrestling with Grizzly bears!
