Name: _____ Class: _____

© 2026 www.keepyourchildsafe.org

Bravery

Many people think being brave means you don't have any fear, but this isn't correct. Bravery is showing courage in the face of fear or adversity. After all, you can't be brave unless there's fear, and a person who doesn't feel fear in scary or threatening situations isn't brave, they're just plain stupid.

What does it mean to be brave? _____

_____

_____

Why do we admire bravery? _____

_____

_____

What does it take to be brave? _____

_____

_____

Write about a time in your own life when you've been brave: _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

Bravery comes in many different forms. There's the courage to face one's fears or do something scary. There's the bravery it takes to stand up to one's friends when you feel they're doing something wrong. There's bravery in trying something new or unfamiliar. Of course, there are also heroic acts of bravery where people put themselves at risk to help others.

Describe a heroic act of bravery, whether real or imagined: _____

_____

_____

_____

Describe an act of bravery that involves trying something new: _____

_____

_____

_____

Provide an example of being brave by doing something scary: _____

_____

_____

_____

Describe a time when you've been brave by confronting your fears: _____

_____

_____

_____

Write about an act of bravery in a social situation: _____

_____

_____

_____